PREFACE

IN compiling this Catalogue, which is complete to May 31, 1900, the main object has been to produce a useful working catalogue, which, in addition to being an inventory of the books, will, by a free use of cross-references and index-entries, facilitate reference to the information stored therein. The compilation has been made direct from the books themselves, every one of which has been examined.

The compiler is, however, fully conscious of the possibility of error and omission inseparable from catalogues, and ventures to ask the indulgence of the users, and to remind them that the work has been carried on simultaneously with the daily duties of his office.

Each book is catalogued under the Author's name, or, in the case of an anonymous work, under the first important word of the title, and indexed under the subject or subjects treated of. All index-entries refer back to the main entries.

The main entries, cross-references, and index-entries are all arranged in one alphabetical sequence.

Minute bibliographical descriptions of the books have been avoided. Portraits, illustrations, and maps, any extra matter, MS. notes, and book-plates have, however, been noted. The sizes of the books are given approximately only as folio, quarto, octavo, etc.

The contents of long sets of works, historical collections, publications of learned societies, and volumes of essays are usually printed in small type, and are indexed as if they were separate books.

The collection of Pamphlets, dating from 1832, is at present bound in 197 volumes. Each pamphlet is catalogued and indexed exactly as if it were an individual volume. Some anonymous pamphlets, however, and some few anonymous books with no specially significant titles, are grouped under the various subject headings, e.g. CORN LAWS; INDIA; IRELAND; POLITICAL PARTIES; POOR, THE, AND THE POOR LAWS, etc.

Again, in a few cases, works are catalogued under an Editor's name, where such is well known, e.g. MASERES' TRACTS.

This treatment of collected works and pamphlets will, it is hoped, render easily accessible much information that is liable to be overlooked.

Owing to the magnitude of the task no attempt has been made to index the contents of the Parliamentary Papers. The Library contains a set of the COMMONS PAPERS from 1801. They are fully indexed in the Official Indexes, which as well us sets of the Journals and Minutes of the House of Lords and the Journals of the House of Commons, are also in the Library.

To prevent confusion the Shelf-marks will be entered against the Main Entries only in a specially prepared copy of the Catalogue, to be kept in the Small Library. As the volumes of Pamphlets are shelved together in one case, the printed reference to the number of the volume will be deemed a sufficient shelf-mark for a pamphlet.

Lists of additions to the Library will be printed in the same style at convenient intervals and incorporated alphabetically with the special copy, thus maintaining a complete shelf-marked Catalogue.

Very few records of the Library exist. A resolution to establish and maintain a Library is embodied in one of the original rules drawn up in 1832, and it has gradually grown to its present size by purchases, aided by gifts from numerous donors, among whom may be mentioned :—

The previous Catalogue was in MS., written in the year 1871. The late Mr. Wakeling, who was appointed Librarian in 1890, commenced writing a revised copy, but the mere mechanical copying took so long a time that at his death, in 1895, the work had proceeded only as far as letter F. The present Librarian, soon after his appointment in 1895, was directed to make an entirely new Catalogue—the result being the present volume.

The compiler desires to tender his thanks to the Committee for having entrusted him with the work, and hopes that the result will justify their confidence. His thanks are also due to the Secretary—Mr. Streatfeild—for having facilitated the progress of the work, and to many friends who have given valuable suggestions and assistance (especially to Mr. H. C. Stewardson, whose technical knowledge has been of much service in all matters relating to printing), while his brother, Mr. F. J. Cox, of the London Library, has given much help in planning the catalogue and in settling some of the doubtful points that always occur in cataloguing.
